U-turn drivers cause traffic hold-ups

WHEN are the police going to clamp down on motorists doing U-turns in Eltham High Street. I was recently waiting for a bus outside the Wimpy and in that 10 minutes six cars did U-turns causing hold-ups while waiting for other cars to let them go, sometimes they just pull out in front of buses. Perhaps notices could be put up and more bobbies put on the beat to stop this problem as I think it's an accident waiting to happen.

Sylvia Moore, Eltham

● A council spokesperson said: "We understand Sylvia Moore's concerns. Doing U turns on any busy street is thoughtless and dangerous and against the Highway Code. The council will support the police in any action they take to stop it. The council is leading a £5m scheme to improve the public realm and traffic arrangements in Eltham Town Centre. We will be consulting on detailed proposals later this year. Although the design is at an early stage it will include proposals that should address poor driver behaviour such U turning." A spokesperson for the Met Police said: "Doing a U-turn on Eltham High Street is not an offence. We have passed your concerns to the local policing team to ensure that they target anyone in Eltham High Street driving without due care and attention."

What future for East Greenwich Library building?

MAY we, as Friends of East Greenwich Library, ask what the council plans for the future of this building when the library moves onto the new site at the end of May? This listed building has been neglected for very many years and is in a bad state of repair. Many promises were made by council representatives over the years but none were kept. We hope that the library will not fall victim to the current trend for high-rise flats that cut out the skyline – it could be used as a much-needed community hall to include lunch clubs for the elderly, sports facilities for the young, to include badminton, table tennis, judo and amateur dramatics. It is time we were told.

Molly Bartlett for and on behalf of Terry Wheeler, Joan Plant, Beryl Horsham, Rina Prentice, Susannah Bartlett and others

● A Royal Borough of Greenwich spokesperson said: "As has been planned for a long time, the council is opening a brand new, bigger and modern library in East Greenwich as part of the new Greenwich Centre. Purpose built, the new library will be three times the size of the existing library with 48 new computers for residents to use and 40% more books than the library at East Greenwich currently stocks. Given the increased space, longer opening hours and bigger range of facilities, the new library will be able to provide for a much larger number of users than the current East Greenwich library is able to do. This really is an exciting opportunity and a tremendous new facility we're proud to be bringing to the people of Greenwich. When the Greenwich Centre is complete, the library facility will transfer from East Greenwich to the new building a short distance away. The existing East Greenwich library will then close and be sold, with the proceeds supporting the costs of the new development. We recognise that the building is cherished by local people as a listed building, and as such elements of its design are protected under the planning process - which will need to be considered by any potential purchaser of the site. Royal Greenwich will ensure that any future use is sympathetic to its character."

Global relay to mark Gunners' 300 years

ROYAL Artillery gunners past and present gathered at the regiment's birthplace – the Royal Arsenal in Woolwich – to launch the celebrations for their 300th anniversary.

These will begin with a global relay of a specially commissioned army baton containing a vellum parchment of loyal greetings to Her Majesty The Queen. It will be opened and read on their anniversary, May 26 next year.

The baton's design blends both old and new Gunners' technology. The barrel is modelled on the original Royal Artillery Six Pounder Gun. The titanium material is used in the unmanned aerial vehicle, the regiment's latest equipment. The point of the baton is an original First World War mechanical time fuse, while a Second World War shell primer forms the base.

The baton will circumnavigate the globe over the next 12 months, each leg carried by representatives of every unit in the Royal Artillery, both regulars and reserves, to countries of the Commonwealth and the UK's allies. The epic journey will end at the regiment's new home, Larkhill in Wiltshire, on May 26 next year, when the baton will be presented to Her Majesty.

At the launch event the Royal Artillery Band played, standard bearers stood to attention, and troops marched on parade. Three hundred years ago only men served as Gunners. Today, riders from the King's Troop Royal Horse Artillery were led by Captain Julie Navarro on charger Jack Lynchpin, who took charge of the Captain-General's Baton from General Sir Timothy Granville-Chapman for the first leg of the relay.

Eleven immaculate horses and a First World War 13-Pounder Gun then rode off through the London suburbs to pass the baton to seven Parachute Regiment Royal Horse Artillery in Bexleyheath who took charge of it for the next leg.

"It's a huge honour to be able to carry the baton on the first leg of the relay," said Julie, 28. "It's thrilling for all of us that it will be The King's Troop Royal Horse Artillery who will have the double honour of ending the relay next year when it is presented to The Queen."

General election results 2015

Labour hold three local parliamentary seats

Mr Pennycook's decision to stand triggered a by-election in his former Greenwich West council ward. This was won by Mehboob Khan for Labour.

Three of the counts took place by 180 staff at the Waterfront leisure centre in Woolwich after the polls closed at 10pm. Counting for Erith and Thamesmead was done by neighbouring Bexley Council, which was responsible for administering the election for the seat.

A total of 167,923 Royal Greenwich residents were eligible to vote.

The results were announced during the night by the Mayor, Cllr Mick Hayes, who was the borough's official Returning Officer. No recounts were required.

● All the results are also published on the council's website at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/elections2015 and on twitter @Royal_Greenwich

De Lucy voters pick their reps

ELECTION fever hit the UK last week and children at De Lucy Primary School in Abbey Wood were just as enthusiastic to get involved in the excitement. Pupils in Year 5 learnt about the democratic process and the values of the country by taking part in an election exercise where they ran campaigns for their school houses. This included making posters, handing out leaflets and preparing a manifesto, which they presented in assemblies. The school then held a vote to elect their house with all 420 pupils in the school involved. They posted their votes in a sealed ballot box and there was even a polling booth in which pupils were able to cast their vote.

Dangerous pesticide alert

Traders urged to check shop shelves for toxic substance

by Dick Townsend-Smith

SHOPKEEPERS in the borough have been put on the alert to watch out for a banned and dangerous pesticide, which rogue suppliers might try to offer them.

The product is called Sniper DDVP, and 11 100ml bottles were seized by Greenwich Trading Standards from a shop in Plumstead Road, Woolwich.

The product is highly toxic, and banned because it can damage the human nervous system. There are also fears that it can cause cancer.

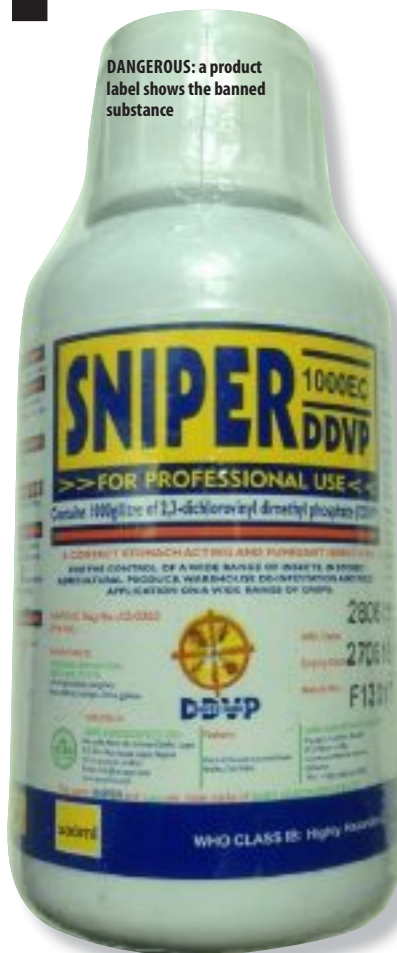

It has been banned from general sale in the UK since 2002, and professional use of DDVP products were also banned from 2007. In 2012 the ban was applied across all European Union countries.

Shops which sell illegal and unlicensed pest control products could be prosecuted, and the stocks seized.

Cllr Jackie Smith, the council's cabinet member for community safety and environment said: "We believe people may have been turning up and selling the substance shop-to-shop so shopkeepers need to be aware. Traders should avoid buying goods from people who call into their business uninvited. They should only source stock from traceable established businesses that provide invoices and receipts."

Shopkeepers are being asked to check any insect and pest control products they stock to see if the contents mention Dichlorvos or DDVP. If so, they should take it off the shelves and contact Trading Standards on 020 8921 8223 for further advice. They should keep details such as receipts and invoices so the suppliers can be traced.

New Park Friends group set up

A NEW Friends of Parks group has been formed to safeguard and help maintain Queenscroft Park, which is off Queenscroft Road in Eltham.

It was set up with help from council staff, and a meeting was held at Eltham Hill School where locals voted in a chairperson and secretary. The land used to be known as Queenscroft Recreation Ground after an early 18th century house of the same name in Eltham. The land was once a deer park within the estate of Eltham Palace.

Hunt is on for a special Veteran

THE search is on for veterans from the armed forces who give up their time to help other people in the community. Organisers of the Greenwich Great Get Together and Armed Forces Day event at the Royal Artillery Barracks sports fields on Saturday June 27 are looking for nominations for the title of Veteran of the Year. They should be someone who lives in the borough and who has served in the Army, the Royal Navy, the RAF or the Royal Marines.

People can be nominated by friends, colleagues, family, groups or organisations. They should be the sort of people who give up their time for others, raise money for charity, are involved in youth, sports or associations – or anything else that makes life better for other people. If you know a veteran who you think deserves the title send your nomination to the Station Commander, RA Barracks, Repository Road, Woolwich SE18 4BB. Nominations must include the postal address and contact telephone number of the person making the nomination, details of the person being nominated including the reason why they should be recognised and a short service history, if known. A panel will read all nominations and decide on the winner. The closing date for nominations is Monday June 15. The winner will be presented with the award at the Great Get Together and Armed Forces Day celebrations.

Fresh appeal for a

Focus now on life-saving essentials

by Dick Townsend-Smith

THE borough has responded magnificently to the pleas for help following the Nepal earthquake disaster.

Food and clothing are now no longer needed, following the incredible generosity of local people and businesses, after a local appeal led by the royal borough. The big focus now has moved to providing life-saving essentials such as lightweight blankets, tents, wind-up or solar torches, first aid kits, medical masks and water purifying tablets.

Greenwich has one of the largest Nepalese communities in London. And community leaders have been overwhelmed by the support from fellow residents.

Fatta Thapa, a trustee of a Nepali support project, said: "The local Nepalese community really appreciate the help that people are giving, and their donations."

His wife Sonia, added: "The response has been outstanding - we've had volunteers from public health, the police and from schools - Brookhill Children's Centre has offered a day's takings from their cafe and a royal borough cleaning team organised a jumble sale."

She explained that the first shipment of supplies from Greenwich had reached Nepal.

"Our aim was to reach the hard-to-reach villages. We were concerned about our cargo being

// The local Nepalese community really appreciate the help that people are giving, and their donations // stranded at the airport but we are really pleased that it has now reached and our donations have made a very small but very much appreciated difference in many lives."

A Sunday vigil was held in General Gordon Square, Woolwich, to remember victims of the earthquake. It attracted large numbers, and the Mayor, Cllr Mick Hayes, lit a beacon.

Meanwhile, the Oxfam shop in College Approach, Greenwich, is appealing for cash donations from shoppers to help fund the charity's emergency response to the disaster. Shop manager Jasmin Jutley said: "We have all seen the terrible images and we all want to help, in however small a way. Donating in the shop is easy and will make a real difference to Oxfam's emergency work."

Donations can be handed in at Woolwich Town Hall, Monday to Friday, 9am to 6pm and on Saturday from 9am to 1pm; and at the Eltham Centre which is open 7am to 10pm weekdays and 9am to 5pm on weekends.

● Donations can be made on the Help Nepal Network's Justgiving page at www.justgiving.com/quakenepal or the Disasters Emergency Committee's Nepal Earthquake Appeal at www.dec.org.uk or on 0370 60 60 900. Make online donations at www.oxfam.org.uk, by phone on 0300 200 1999 or by texting EMERGENCY to 70066 to donate £5.

Schoolchildren do their bit

SCHOOLS around the borough – several with children from Nepalese families – have been doing their bit to help with the earthquake disaster appeal.

At Sherington Primary in Charlton, headteacher Karen Dennett met with her school council after they received a plea for support from the Mayor, Cllr Mick Hayes. She said: "I am so overwhelmed by the response of our families to the School Council's requests. We are collecting in money from our non-uniform day of £1 for each child. Also I am currently in the process of trying to find a mini-bus or van to take the donations to the Eltham Centre.

"We have a very wide multi-cultural mix, but two of our School Council reps and many of our families are from Nepal. I am just so overwhelmed by the response from parents."

RESIDENTS are invited to tramp through the night to help support local children.

Locals can join in Nightline, a fantastic walking event on the longest day of the year on June 20.

It's been organised by Wide Horizons, an adventure learning charity dedicated to giving children the opportunity to experience adventures as part of their education and development.

The charity walk takes place on the summer solstice, the longest day of the year, and starts in Eltham. Participants can choose to complete a 50km route, or a shorter 25km trail, that will see them trek from sunset to sunrise through the striking urban landscapes of London and in to the gorgeous countryside of Kent.

Wide Horizons' head of fundraising, Neil Munro, said: "Nightline is an amazing way for people in the royal borough to support local children. It's an incredible night-time adventure that will be helping children to experience adventures of their own. Walkers will also get a first-hand experience of the

Messages for Mental Health Week

FAMILY doctors are supporting Mental Health Awareness Week, which began yesterday (Monday, May 11).

The week is organised by the Mental Health Foundation and aims to raise awareness of mental health to fight discrimination and stigma, and promote good mental wellbeing.

One in four people in the UK will experience a mental health problem in their lifetime explained Dr Ellen Wright, Clinical Chair of the NHS Greenwich Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG). She said: "Mental health problems can include low mood and depression, stress, anxiety, anger and panic attacks. Most people who feel low will start to feel better after a few days or weeks, but if these feelings persist or get in the way of everyday life then it's time to seek help."

The theme of this year's Mental Health Awareness Week is mindfulness, which is about paying attention to the present moment, without getting stuck in the past or worrying about the future. It is a mind-body based training that can help you observe the way you think and feel about your experiences, whether good or bad.

● Learn more about the research at www.mentalhealth.org.uk/mindfulness

If you have had thoughts of self-harming or are feeling suicidal, contact someone immediately such as your GP, a friend, a relative or someone else you can trust or call The Samaritans on 08457 90 90 90. New homes planning rules set to change

PLANNING rules in the borough are set to change so that applications for new residential developments can become more transparent.

The council is proposing a new policy which will mean developers who put in residential planning applications that don't meet the borough's affordable housing target will have to make the reason why public.

At the moment, developers are required to include at least 35 per cent of affordable housing when they build new developments of more than ten new homes. But developers who claim this does not make business sense for them will now have to supply a viability study which can be viewed by members of the public.

This study will then be assessed by an independent expert on behalf of the council, who then makes recommendations to the Planning Board.

The council wants to introduce a new list of criteria that sets out what information should be provided when submitting a planning application.

This includes the requirement to provide a fully public viability study for residential developments that are proposing less than 35 per cent affordable homes. This will then be subject to full public consultation as part of the planning application.

Cllr Danny Thorpe, the council's cabinet member for regeneration and transport, said: "At the moment our hands are tied on affordable housing levels if the viability study shows a development won't work financially with the levels of affordable housing we want. This will now allow the whole process to be far more transparent – making the viability studies publicly available as part of the planning document.

"It means the Royal Borough and residents alike can see precisely why a developer might claim they cannot meet our affordable housing targets.

"We believe we're the first local authority in the country to be doing this – looking at policy which insists on these studies being in the public domain. We now want to hear what people think about this policy so please do give us your views."

● Consultation on the proposal began this week. People can find more details at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/haveyoursay

Martial art public display in town square

GENTLE MOVEMENTS: passers-by join a Tai Chi taster session in General Gordon Square

by Dan Stephens

A TEAM of Active for Health participants and the general public gave a public display of Tai Chi for shoppers and passers-by in Woolwich town centre.

People in and around General Gordon Square were treated to a Tai Chi demonstration led by instructor Rhonda Bailey as part of World Tai Chi Day on April 25. Organised by the royal borough, the team gave a first-hand taster of what Tai Chi has to offer to help celebrate National Tai Chi Day and promote the Greenwich Get Active Service, which offers a huge range of sports and physical activity courses and sessions to royal borough residents.

Although labelled a martial art, Tai Chi primarily focuses on gentle movements and exercise routines for the benefit of health and mental wellbeing. The activities in General Gordon Square attracted huge interest with around 60 people getting involved and stopping to chat.

Greenwich Get Active is the one stop shop for information and support on getting active with lots to choose from, Tai Chi to swimming to football, so you're bound to find something to suit you. Greenwich Get Active offers free, friendly and one-to-one help, support and encouragement to help get you started and maintain an active lifestyle.

Yes Ambassador

Students meet US statesman

by Dick Townsend-Smith

STUDENTS at Thomas Tallis secondary in Kidbrooke were presented with commemorative coins by Matthew Barzun, the US Ambassador to the UK, when he paid a visit to the school.

The ambassador had been invited to meet the school's Franklin Scholars, a team of Year 7 and 8 students who spend time on a weekly after school project based on a US-based mentoring system to help new students settle into school.

He also led a debate on US home and foreign policy with an audience of Year 10 and sixth form students. They discussed the rights and wrongs of 20th century history, and exchanged views of the US and Americans. Ambassador Barzun presented two US Embassy coins to Esther Bukoye from Year 13 and Sonia Foday from Year 12 in recognition of their work with the Tallis Student Council.

Headteacher Carolyn Roberts said, "At Tallis we aim to offer education that enables our students to understand the world and to change it for the better. We were fortunate indeed to spend time with a global thinker and political player. As a result, we understand more about the world today, and about the challenges that face us."

Lottery boost for health club

A CLUB for Asian senior citizens that meets on Wednesday afternoons at the Slade Community Centre in Pendrell Street, Plumstead, can now expand its services and membership, thanks to a £10,000 grant from the Big Lottery Fund. The club was set up 29 years ago, and is open to Asian people of all faiths. The new funding means it can offer exercise classes such as yoga and pilates, and arts and crafts, along with afternoon tea and snacks.

Health checks are available, with medical professionals coming to check things like blood pressure. The club also organises outings, classes in English, and courses in self-management.

Community worker and club manager Surjit Jutla said: "We have a membership of nearly 80 Asian men and women of all faiths, aged 60 and over. The Big Lottery money means we can now open the club up to people of 25 and upwards, and we would like to have more members."

OFFICER: Peta
Cubberley

A NURSE from Charlton became the 10,000th person to join Greenwich & Bexley Credit Union last week. The financial co-operative, based in Thomas Street, Woolwich, provides an easy and safe way to save and borrow and is open to anyone who lives or works in the Royal Borough of Greenwich.

Over the last 17 years it has made £25 million of loans, enabling its members to go on holiday, improve their homes, get married, buy school uniforms, pay off outstanding debts, and many other things.

Benefits enjoyed by members include an annual dividend on savings, very low interest rates on loans, free life insurance on savings and loans, no hidden costs or early repayment fees and savings fully protected by the Financial Services Compensation Scheme. The credit union is run solely for the benefit of local residents and employees and, unlike the banks, has no external shareholders. Members make a regular saving every week or month and can apply for a loan after three months. Members can borrow between £50 and £15,000 depending on how much they have saved and every application is assessed individually to ensure people will be able to repay safely.

Peta Cubberley, the credit union's new community engagement officer said: "Achieving this milestone highlights the popularity of the credit union among local people from all backgrounds across the whole of the royal borough. We really are open to everyone. Our new loan rates, starting at 4.9% are proving very popular and our continuing growth means that we will now be able to open a new desk at the Eltham Centre."

The credit union has just carried out a survey of members which gave them a chance to say what they really thought. One young mum who lives in Plumstead said "I joined the credit union around five years ago and it helped me so much when I needed cash for fees for my daughter and improving my home. The union was there to help me when I was in need."

An Eltham resident wrote: "Too many pay day lenders are catching people with cash flow problems at very high interest rates but with the credit union, you get responsible and fair lending."

A 25-year-old office worker added: "I've been a member of the credit union for over three years - I think it's a great way to save and borrow and is safe and secure!"

The Mayor of Greenwich will be opening a new credit union branch office at the Eltham Centre at 11am on Wednesday May 13 to provide much needed access to services for residents in the south of the borough. Any organisations based in Eltham who would like to help to promote the credit union or offer payroll deductions for their employees are welcome to contact Peta via email at peta.cubberley@gbcreditunion.com

● To join the credit union you must be aged 16 or over and live or work in the borough. Young people under 16 are welcome to join the credit union's young saver scheme. You can find out more about the credit union and join online at their website www.gbcreditunion.com or call in to their HQ at 48 Thomas Street, Woolwich. Tel 020 8855 4344.

A WOOLWICH-based community bank, which has been helping local people to save and borrow for almost two decades, is opening a new branch at the Eltham Centre this week. Supported by the royal borough, the Greenwich and Bexley Credit Union is also celebrating its 10,000th member. RONNIE WOODS finds out more about the range of financial services on offer to individuals, community groups and businesses.

SCENE

BLACKHEATH'S hidden gem Mycenae House, presents a special night of hilarity featuring four of the fastest rising and emerging comics from the national comedy club scene.

Tom Allen returns while Bec Hill, Iszi Lawrence and Jamali Maddix will be hitting the Mycenae stage for the first time.

The community centre in a former convent building is a home to more than 55 groups and a hive of activity throughout the week with more than 120 activities on offer from yoga to local history, painting to jazz music.

Running for a year, this month's comedy night sees a stellar line up of new and emerging comics:

Tom Allen returns to Mycenae a year after reducing audiences to tears of laughter. Based in nearby Bromley, Tom won the So You Think You're Funny competition in Edinburgh and went on to win the BBC New Comedy Award later that same year.

Bec Hill is a UK based Australian comic, who is something of a You Tube superstar and possibly the only stand up comic to incorporate paper puppetry into her show.

"A highly creative, delightfully funny show - an innovative talent to keep an eye on," read a Time Out report.

Iszi Lawrence analyses her life with a sharp turn of phrase offering a remarkable insight through her ferocious intelligence. She has performed alongside acts including Alan Davies, Sean Hughes, Richard Herring, Sarah Millican, Stewart Lee, Alun Cochrane, Phil Jupitus, and Tony Law.

Twenty-two year-old Jamali Maddix is one of most promising and exciting acts to hit the comedy circuit. Recently winning Chortle's Student Comedian of the Year in Edinburgh, he has stunned audiences with his frank yet ironic take on everyday racism.

Community centre manager Mark Johnson-Brown said: "This is a great opportunity for locals to see award-winning comedians on their doorstep. We've got a cabaret style format and we've developed a really nice atmosphere."

Mycenae House Comedy Club, 90 Mycenae Road, is on Friday May 22 at 8pm, tickets £9, special rates for students and groups £5.

Public Notice

Royal Borough of Greenwich
Section 62(4A) of the Planning Act 1990 (as amended)
Section 11(3)(c) of the Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) (Order) 2015
Consultation on a draft local information requirements list for planning applications

The Royal Borough gives notice that a draft local information requirements list (a 'local list') for planning applications has been published for consultation. The local list, once formally adopted, sets out the information that Royal Borough of Greenwich will require to be able to register, assess and determine planning applications. The amount of information required will vary, depending upon the type and complexity of the proposed development, including any specific site constraints. Formally setting out information requirements in a local list will help to ensure that planning applications are accompanied by sufficiently detailed information, which provides greater certainty and consistency for applicants in the assessment and determination of their planning applications.

This consultation on a draft local list follows the Government's planning practice guidance on validation requirements. Royal Borough of Greenwich is inviting comments on the draft local list over a period of six weeks from 11 May to 22 June. Consultation responses will be taken into account by the Royal Borough when preparing the final revised list. If you require further information please e-mail planning.policy@royalgreenwich.gov.uk or phone 020 8921 3673.

The draft local list can be viewed on the Royal Greenwich website <http://www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/bureaucrasy>. Paper copies of the draft local list will be made available at Royal Greenwich public libraries (opening times below). Representations can be made via email or by post to:

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

Edition 442

BIDDING FOR PROPERTIES

People on the Housing register are able to bid for all properties, regardless of their banding. You must be eligible for the size of property and bids will be considered in the following order:

First Band A, followed by Band B both in priority date order.
Those in Band C will then be considered in registration date order.

Please note that there will still be some properties with age restrictions so only people of this age group can apply for these.

BAND

- A is for applicants in unsatisfactory housing, including people moving due to demolition and those underoccupying their homes.
- B is for applicants the Royal Borough of Greenwich must prioritise according to the law, particularly homeless people, and others with an urgent need to move for medical or welfare reasons.
- C is for all applicants on the housing register, including those that are in priority bands A and B.

How do I apply?

Get on the list

First, you've got to be on the housing waiting list to join the scheme. If you're not, register an application on line at www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk

Find your applicant number

It will be on the letter you've already had from the Royal Borough of Greenwich about the new scheme. You'll need that number and the reference number of the property you're after, which will be on the advert.

Pick out your ideal property

by looking in Greenwich Time or regularly checking the website:

www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

Click on your preference on the website. If you don't have a computer, you can always use one for free at either The Eltham or Woolwich Centre or a local library.

Apply in one of three ways

- Text bidding is now available and the number to use is 07786207913. For further information please see page 2, or
- Phone the 24-hour hotline 020 8921 4340. It's an automatic push-button system and calls will be charged at the normal local rate, or
- Via the Royal Borough of Greenwich's website www.royalgreenwich.gov.uk/homes

- Return all the keys to the Royal Borough's offices no later than midday on Monday (or Tuesday if it is a Bank Holiday). You will be charged a further week's rent if you do not return your keys on time.

If you leave repairs that are your responsibility, or items that require disposal you will be charged the cost of this work.

GREEN AND SERENE: members playing on "The Pleasaunce" Bowling Green beginners to experts with qualified coaches on hand. "If you're looking for a new challenge in the fresh air with new friends then lawn bowls is for you," Su added brightly.

Members of the Tudor Bowls Club in Eltham (in The Pleasaunce," next to the Tudor Barn) are similarly positive, with fixture secretary Alf Roberts effusive: "We have a very full fixture list with six seaside games and everyone gets a fair turn to play". Tudor's own open day is the following Sunday on May 24 when the public will be able to have free tuition from 2.30pm to 5pm. Equipment and tea and biscuits will be provided for bowlers only.

Initially, the club was formed in 1922 as the R.A.S.R.A (Royal Arsenal Sports & Recreation Assoc) and was part of the sports complex on Plumstead marshes, set-up for Woolwich Arsenal employees.

With the demise of The Arsenal, the site was sold and the club relocated to the Pleasaunce, in Well Hall Road, and took the opportunity to change their name to Tudor B.C.

While ostensibly British – images of immaculate lawns, well pressed white flannels and afternoon tea served with biscuits tend to spring to mind – its roots date back further to the Egyptians in 5000 BC. The French took it further – Boules played in every French village – and now it's increasingly played throughout Asia. "It's healthy it's sociable and it's definitely a challenge – I keep throwing so hard my woods end in the ditch," Su added laughing. So give it a go, you might just be leading the next trend!

You'll be bowled over

Open days at Plumstead and Eltham lawn bowls clubs

by Richard Morgan

THE world champions are all under 40 and fitness is a key part of the sport. It's hard, it's competitive and games can go to the wire and it's increasingly becoming quite trendy.

Lawn green bowling is experiencing a major revival and shedding its old fashioned image. Traditional promoters- Saga and Just Retirement – are gradually changing with more youthful brand sponsors looking on. "It's highly addictive, really good fun and the atmosphere couldn't be nicer," Su Vint, membership secretary of Plumstead Bowling Club told GreenwichTime. The club, founded back in 1906, and located on the heart of Plumstead Common between The Ship and Old Mill, is running an open day on Sunday, May 17, between 11am-4pm - for new members. All comers are welcome from
